

NUTCRACKER SYNDROME IN CHILDREN: A SINGLE CENTRE EXPERIENCE

*Marija Ratković Janković¹, Ljiljana Pejčić¹, Dragana Ilić²,
Sonja Janković², Snežana Živanović¹, Ivana Nikolić³,
Dragana Lazarević¹, Dušan Miljković⁴*

Nutcracker syndrome (NS) is a rare cause of hematuria and/or proteinuria defined as the left renal vein entrapment between the abdominal aorta and the superior mesenteric artery. The majority of patients, mostly females, are diagnosed in puberty age. We report eight children diagnosed with NS analyzing their clinical features, diagnostics approaches, disease evolution and treatment outcomes.

Acta Medica Medianae 2023;62(4):110-116.

Key words: nutcracker syndrome, hematuria, orthostatic proteinuria, left renal vein entrapment